Make Your Body Happy™!*

On the days you are feeling a little tired and irritable ...

Make your body happy! Take a refreshing water break. And while you are at it, stretch your arms and legs, too!

Water makes up 60% or more of our body weight and keeps everything "running". Feeling tired? On busy days, we don't always get all the water we need, and one of the side effects of dehydration is fatigue. It just makes sense to be water wise.

What can healthy families do to be water wise?

1. Be a role model!

Kids learn by example.
Help kids develop healthy habits by choosing water yourself!

2. Serve water or low fat milk at meals!

Kids drink what is available; what you serve becomes habit.

3. Make it easy to grab for water between meals!

Young children are among those at the most risk for dehydration. Make sure everyone is getting enough water by drinking water at meals and in between.

- Take bottled water with you when running errands, traveling, or going to the park. Aquafina makes it easy for on-the-go families. Toss in some low fat whole wheat crackers, orange wedges or grapes, and low fat string cheese for a healthy, tasty snack to refresh the whole family!

Drinking Water is a Cool Thing to Do!

When we are hot, sweat is our body's way of keeping us cool. Without enough water to produce sweat, we heat up!

How much water should you drink each day?

While there is no single one size fits all formula, it is important to make sure your body gets what it needs. Keep in mind the amount of water you need increases with:

- Physical activity. The more active you are and the more you sweat; the more water you will need.
- Weather. Hot or humid weather or high indoor temperatures will make you sweat and increase your fluid needs.
- Illness. Water is lost with high temperatures, throwing up, and diarrhea, which increases needs.
